IMO Number

The International Maritime Organization (IMO) identification number.

Signal letters

The radio call sign assigned to the ship under the law of the country the flag of which the ship flies.

Ship's name

The ships are listed in the Register of Ships as follows: names in Russian alphabetical order, names beginning with Arabic numerals, Roman numerals, names in Latin alphabetical order from "A" to "Z". In most cases, the Russian names are transliterated into Latin.

Column 3. Class/Navigation aids

Ship's class

Class notation of the ship denoting that the ship fully or to a degree considered adequate by Russian Maritime Register of Shipping complies with those requirements of Russian Maritime Register of Shipping Rules which apply to her according to her functions, service conditions and class notation and that the ship is under Russian Maritime Register of Shipping supervision specified by the Rules in respect of her technical condition during the specified period with performing mandatory surveys prescribed by the Rules for this period. The class of the ship is certified by the valid Classification Certificate on board.
Where the ship is assigned the second class of Russian Maritime Register of Shipping, its notation is shown in the same Column.

The following symbols, distinguishing marks and descriptive notations are used in the class notation.
